

Diary

Fairgoers strolling through the Messeplatz had to dodge a woman pushing a large red ball yesterday. This was no jolly sports match but an art project gone awry as Claudia Waldner ran around the square inviting people to bounce her big, big ball. But baffled Art Basel attendees shied away from the action, as Claudia struggled to control her wayward spheroid, almost smashing a Ramada Plaza hotel window. When asked what the purpose of the piece was, Claudia's assistant gamely replied: "She always does this with red things in different Swiss towns"

A fleet of Fabiolas

"Meet Fabiola at Kirschgarten", declared the badges being distributed to visitors at the

P-p-pick up a Penguin

the conceptual artist Claude Rutault, which are themselves available for purchase at €6,000 each. (At the time of

INTERNATIONAL EDITION

THE ART NEWSPAPER

In the June main edition

Our current edition contains 112 pages packed with the latest art world news, events and analysis of the market, plus high profile interviews, scholarly book reviews, a smattering of gossip, and both a new magazine and a pocket guide to the Venice Biennale

Magazine in depth

